

PRETTY WOMAN

A film directed by Garry Marshall. This romantic comedy was premiered in March 23 of 1990 in the United States. The stars in the film were the actor Richard Gere and the actress Julia Roberts. The film is about a Hollywood prostitute, Vivian Ward and wealthy businessman, Edward Lewis. And how their relationship develops during a week together. The actress Julia Roberts receives a Golden Globe Award and an Academy Award for the best actress. The film and Richard Gere were nominated to the Golden Globe Awards too, but they didn't win any price.

This film tells about Edward Lewis, a wealthy businessman who travels to Los Angeles. There he is staying at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel. His partners advise him to go with someone to a business meeting, but he has just argued with his partner. Edward meets a prostitute, Vivian Ward, a girl with not very elegant behaviors, and he takes her to his room. Edward is attracted to her and proposes to pay her 3,000 dollars if she stays with him for a week. She agrees and as the days go by, they get to know each other and begin to feel mutual feelings. Edward pays for Vivian's expensive brands clothes so that she fits more with his social circle this way she can accompany him to events. Finally, after some discussions, they realize that they are in love, they become a couple and Vivian influence in Edward's business decisions.

This is a gripping story, because you want to know what is going to happen in the next scene and with the couple. The score that is used during the film is awesome and it put you in the mood of the protagonist Vivian. Although it lasts almost two hours is fast-moving. The fact that the movie is recorded in the streets of Los Angeles, makes you feel inside the story, and you feel everything real.

This romantic comedy is a smash hit and a well worth seeing, I truly recommended to all this people who love romantic histories. I think everybody knows about this movie or has heard of it and almost all the opinions it has received are good, these show that it is an entertaining movie. Seeing this film I feel adrenaline, because of great scenes accompanied by a good song and angry about some male chauvinist acts of the characters with the protagonist.
